

SALAH KING OF THE KOP THE MAKING OF A LIVERPOOL LEGEND

"I'll certainly try it," Barry promised. "But how do I get to be a member?" Jack clung to his long, thick hair as the Wind began to fly down the mountain, crying out in a windy voice: "Barry what?" "What does the title mean?" he asked, hoping it might modify the unfriendly message of the four short lines that followed. Barry refused to believe her. Neither the woman nor her apartment corresponded with his preconceptions of poets and the necessarily indigent life they must lead. "Have you ever published a book?" he asked craftily. Nolan struck her on the cheek. It wasn't more than a slap, and she couldn't have been hurt. "Amanda!" I crawled toward the kitchen, dragging the weight of my head with me. "Amanda, what?" Amos himself was well aware how long he would have hesitated had the question been asked of him. As the seconds passed, he began to fear for Jack's life, and wished he had had a chance to figure some other way to get the mirror out. One minute passed; perhaps they could have tricked the girl into bringing it up herself. Two minutes; they could have tied a string to the leg of a frog and sent him down to do the searching. Three minutes; there was not a bubble on the water, and Amos surprised himself by deciding the only thing to do was to jump in and at least try to save the prince. But there was a splash of water at his feet. All, however, were the swarms of golden gnats that busied about him. He would beat at them with the. by ROBERT BLOCK. "Thank you very much," said Amos and walked on till he came to another sailor whose feet were awash in soap suds. The sailor was pushing a mop back and forth so hard that Amos decided he was trying to scrub the last bit of color off the grey boards. "Good evening to you too," said Amos. "I'm exploring the ship and I have very little time since I'm to be up at four o'clock in the morning. I was told to avoid the brig. So could you point it out to me? I don't want to wander into it by accident." The sailors gathered on the deck of the ship just as the sun began to set, and the grey man put one grey gloved hand on Amos' shoulder and pointed to the mountain with his other. "There, among the windy peaks, is the cave of the North Wind. Even higher, on the highest and windiest peak, is the second fragment of the mirror. It is a long, dangerous, and treacherous climb. Shall I expect you back for breakfast?" "It would be all right for a while," she recalled. "But the pressure would build until I had to go out and." "There is my closet full of jewels," said the grey man. "Wear as many as you want." As a historian, he felt he could not let such a moment slip by unobserved. Silly, but there it was.
